RE GALANTUOMO.

The Coming In of the King and the Going Out of the Pope.

Preparations for the Reception of Victor Em anuel in Rome-Features of the Fetes-His Holiness in the Vatican-Pio Nono's Amiability-His Address to His Cardinals.

The Pope's jubilee having come to its conclusion nd foreign deputations returned to their respective mes, the national jubilee in honor of Victor anuel and the installation of Rome as the capital of Italy is about to commence. His Majesty's run from Florence to Naples, where he arrived at twenty nutes past nine on the morning of the 29th, was made the occasion of a series of ovations at all the stations, including Rome, where the royal train passed at half-past one A. M., insomuch that the King towards the conclusion of his journey was obliged to signify to the local authorities that he was too fatigued to receive any more deputations.

THE PESTIVITIES AT NAPLES sit to the naval exhibition and his distribution of the prizes were performed with a degree of sim-plicity and unaffected heartiness which gave the ectacle more the character of a father among his amily than a sovereign among his subjects. The Prince of Piedmont is to arrive in Rome from Milan this evening at ten minutes past eight, and Victor Emmanuel is expected to-morrow, soon after noon.

I need not say that the municipal authorities are in a lever of excitement to give a suitable reception to the re galantuomo; for, although the King selegraphed in the beginning of the week to the Sindaco, Prince Pallavicino, requesting him to de-vote to charitable purposes the money voted by the nunicipal council for the public rejoicings at his ivanced that they could not be conveniently countermanded; consequently the original festive programme will be carried out; but in order to realize also the generous intentions of His Majesty an ad-ditional sum of money has been voted by the murlums, which will take the names of Victor Emnanuel and Prince Humbert, and another nursing

It would be superfluous to demonstrate the incorrectness of this statement; but the rumor is not altogether unfounded, as I am positively informed from sources connected with the Vatican that everything is, and has been for some time, prepared in the palace for the Pope's departure at a moment's warning, so to tay, should any urgent motives render such a determination inevitable. But according to my information it is not to Corsica, but to Pau, in the south of France, that the Pope will wend his way if he really consents to such a step. The French government is showing more sympathy for the dethroned Ponting than any other just now, and M. Thiers sent a letter to His Holiness two days ago, which was conveyed to the Vatican by the French ambassador, Count d'Harcourt, who had a prolonged audience of the Pope.

to the Vatican by the French Ambassador, Count d'Harcourt, who had a prolonged audience of the Pope.

THE POPE'S RECEPTION.

PIUS IX. Continues to receive deputations with gifts and complimentary visitors every day. A friend of mine went to the audience yesterday, and informed me that the Pope looked most joily as he walked down the fine halis, along which were ranged in single file the applicants for the nonor of kissing his foot. My friend, although a good Catholic, is of republican principles, being a Swiss, and therefore could not get quite so far as kissing the Pope's slipper; but he knelt down, on the suggestion of one of the household prelates, and had the honor, in his turn, of kissing the Pontar's hand. With his smunbox in his hand and a smile on his face Pio Nonohad a word, a nod and occasionally a joke for every one, and especially notice for any person more particularly instoduced to him.

HIS HOLINESS TO HIS CARDINALS.

The following expressions used by His Holiness at the consistory, neld on Monday morning at the Vatican, do not indicate much expectation of a favorable change in the temporal prospects of the Holy See:—"Yes, venerable brethren, we are abandoned by all, and there is no Power we can reckon upon. The soverelgus have sent me envoys and congratulations, but these are mere words, and we have nothing to hope for in the way of deeds. The King will come, the Ministers will come, and the diplomatic body also, and if some chief is absent his legation will be present, which is all the same. We have done everything that was possible; we have replied to dis with plenty of compliments, but nothing more. All is over, and there is nothing more to hope for. Perhaps you will say that we must hope in France; but France has just emerged from a territo errisis, and will have to undergo trials sill more severs. Therefore let us unite more than ever in prayers to God, since unless a miracle happens at its lost.

PATAL MIDNIGHT AFFRAY.

A Man Beaten to Death-Arrest of Suspected Persons-Captain Walsh Looking

Up Evidence.

About twelve o'clock on the night of the 15th inst. Officer Keegan, of the Fourteenth precinct, while on duty, found Anthony Crowley lying on the sidewalk in front of 144 Mulberry street, bleeding profusely from what then appeared to be only a scalp wound on the right side of the nead. Crowley was removed to the Spring street police station. Being moved to the Spring street police station. Being much under the influence of liquor he was unable to state the manner in which he received his injuries. He was attended by a police surgeon, and subsequently removed to Bellevue Hospital. Captain Walsh ordered his officers to make an investigation, which resulted in showing that Crowley and James Devine, the latter living at No. 140 Mulberry street, had engaged in a fight, in which several others took an active part, and before it was oversome one knocked Crowley down with a blow from a club or other heavy weapon. Devine was arrested the following Moniav, and Judge Hogan, on the evidence presented, committed him to await the result of Crowley's injuries. Two other men were also taken in charge, but released by the magistrate, owing to the insufficiency of testimony to hold them.

Crowley, the injured man, subsequently sank into Crowley, the injured man, subsequently sank into insensibility, without being able to make any revelations as to who beat him, and remained in that condition till Friday night, when death ensued. Wooster Beech, M. D., will make a post-mortem examination, and on Wednesday next Coroner Keenan will hold an inquest in the case. Crowley was iwenty-five years of age, born in Ireland, by occupation a steam pipe fitter and lived at No. 104 Mott street. Captain waish, of the Fourteenth precinct, is in search of witnesses supposed to be conversant with the facts of this at present mysterious case. Orowley doubtless either had fracture of the skuil or compression of the brain.

TEMPLE EMANUEL.

Israel the Priesthood of the Race and the Custodians of Divine Truth-Sermon by Rev.

The Scripture lesson read yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Gutheim to the congregation Temple Emanuel was a part of the prophecy of Malachi, from which he subsequently discoursed. Malachi, he said, was the last of the prophets, and lived in the time of the second temple. The Mosaic service had fallen into neglect, and, after the seventy years' captivity of the people in Babyion, Joshua and the other priests found it difficult to organize a proper form of worship, and the people in Malachi's time temple services. They offered in sacrifice such animals as were not fit, and which, if offered to the governor, would neither be pleasing nor acceptable. The blind and the lame and the sick were offered thus; polluted bread was laid upon the altar, and not one of them would even kindle the altar fires nor shut the doors for naught. The name of fruit thereof even his meat deemed contemptible. They snuffed at his sacrifices and considered his service a weariness, and when reproved for such conduct they contemptuously asked, "Wherein have

WHEREIN HAVE WE POLLUTED THEE?" And the priests were as guilty as the people in all these things. The prophet begins by reminding the people that a son honoreth his father and a servant his master, and that they looked upon Jehovah as standing in both relations to them; and he asks them, "If, then, God be a father, where is his honor ? and if a master, phecy, and its design was to secure a proper render-ing of the temple service, both by priests and people. Ezra, the restorer of the law, the second Moses, insisted upon a full and correct provision and execution of all the services according to that which appertained to the old temple. But the sacrifices were not according to the spirit of the age, because, as culture and civilization advanced, and people be came more spiritualized, a spiritual service was demanded. The people were too much given to sacrificing, so that Jeremiah, the prophet, accuses them of sacrificing upon every high hill and under every green tree to idols. But at this time, of which dalachi speaks, a reaction had taken place, and this every green tree to idois. But at this time, of which Malachi speaks, a reaction had taken place, and this idoiatrous sacrifice had completely ceased. The priests had to stand in the offices or God and to perform duties which were not limited to the mechanical act of sacrificing, but they were to be the spiritual heads which should instruct and direct the people. But they did not fulfill their high duties nor meet the expectations of the Lord or of the people, and nence the national life became corrupt and the people fell into internal diseasts on and finally were swept away from the land of their inheritance and scattered abroad, and the sacrifices and temple worship ceased. As Aaron's sons were chosen to be priests to Israel, even so was

and when the temple was in ashes and the people were dispersed abroad they had become the custodians of God's blessed truth to all mankind. The destruction of the temple was an irrevocable blow to the national life of Israel, but only temporary to its spiritual life, for it is with nations as with individuals, everything must tend and be subservient to the general good. And thus the world has been benefited by Israel's dispersion. This is the mission of Israel to be the priesthood of mankind and the custodians of divine truth, and this is what Malachi declares should be the character of the priests:—'The priest's lips should keep knowledge and the people should seek the law at his moutu; for he is the messenger of the Lord of Hosts.' The law of truth should be in his mouth and iniquity should not be found in his lips. He should walk with God in peace and equity and turn many away from iniquity. Here are the outlines of a good religious life to which every one of us should aspire and which we should endeavor to attain. Truth should be the law of the mind, and then religion will be in harmony with life. Was this the whole of religion when the people had offered their sacrifices? No, says the prophet; religion consists not in outward fo sciousness, and we hold fast to it as one of those skip-evident truths which cannot be disputed the skip-evident truths which cannot be disputed the being and reality of God if his mind seeks the assurance of the first cause of things. Truth, virtue and active love form the three rundamental attributes of religion, but the greatest of the three is love. The result of such a life as has been indicated will be inward peace and happiness, and to-day all may enter upon the worship of God and enloy this peace; and we may hopefully look forward to the time when the earth shall be full of the knowledge and the glory of the Lord, a knowledge which shall lead us to love and to good works, and geture for us peace in this world and in the world to come.

THE COCOS ISLAND AND THE GOLD BUNTERS.

A San Francisco paper tells the following:-

A San Francisco paper tells the following:—

The swarthy, heavy-bearded, short-haired, thickset buccaneer who fabricated the tale of hidden treasure at Googo island has probably accomplished more than he originally intended. With each succeeding paer ite yarn has sustained embellishments.
The original buccaneer, like Washington's body servant, has grown into many. The secrethe told has also been credited to buccaneers innumerable. According to a careful estimate a larger sum of money has been expended in hunting the treasure than the treasure itself—the doubloops, ingots and jewels—is supposed to be worth. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been wasted in profiless searches, and not even the color of gold has been discovered. Europeans and people of the Eastern States have finally come to the conclusion that the buccaneer bequeathed the tale with malice aforethought, and that it reality has no foundation in fact. But we have those in California who scout this theory. They will succumb to the thinnest mining excitement and start on prospecting expeditions upon the slightest provocation.
We also have a creditious class; a class who will accept Munchausen stories for truth—and only accept, but relish them—and pay for the enjoyment. The Cocos island treasure seekers belong to this class.
They exhausted their menns a few months ago, but are now recuperating for a fresh start. In view of the loregoing facts information relative to the island wo is special interest. During a conversation with a gentleman who returned from the Island with the list expedition our reporter learned something of its characteristics. Cocos island its situated in the Pacific Ocean about six hundred miles westsouth-west from Panams, in lat, 5 deg, 30 mil.
north. A majority of the newspaper accounts have spoken of the island as being very low and sandy.
This statement is incorrect. The listand is 2,000 feet high and is accessible in only two places. There is but one safe anchorage, and here a small pacen or beach is found. T

DRY GOODS MARKET.

The dry goods market for the past week has been quiet, operations not having commenced to a sufficient extent to cause any active demand. In brown sheetings and shirtings there is no note worthy change, the market being unusually steady.

Bleached sheetings and shirtings move freely from agents' hands, and the receipts are, consequently, well sold up, with prices gradually strengthening. The firmness is observable especially in the lower and medium grades, for which there is a good donand from jobbers' hands. For the finer qualities there is only a fair inquiry, yet sufficient to keep the

there is only a fair inquiry, yet sufficient to keep the stock well reduced. The only changes are Blackstone, A. A., 16c., and Ballou's 4-4, 14c.

Brown drills remain the same in price, with demand steady and stock light.

Colored cottons are firm, with limited movement. Satteens continue in good request.

Canton fiannels are firm at the present rates, a good business being done with the jobbers at figures a triffé less than agents' quotations.

Printing cloths are firm, with the tendency upward. Prints are so far very quiet, the agents being back-

Prints are so far very quiet, the agents being backward in opening the market on account of the irrmess of clotus and the prospective high prices. The most important changes are as follows:—Merimack W., 18½c.; do., p. 11½c.; do. S., 11c.; Lodi prints, 11½c.; do. rubys, 11½c.; do. green, 11c.; do. fancy, 11c.; bunnell's fancies, 11½c.; C. There has been considerable inquiry for skirts during the week, and the leading agents have had a fair amount of trade. Many of the manufacturers are making felt skirts on account of their growing popularity.

For balmorals there has been a good inquiry dur-ing the week, and good styles have been freely taken.

ing the week, and good styles have been freely taken.

Hosiery.

The market has had considerable activity, and a large amount of stock has changed hands. The advance in prices is, however, in no proportion to the increased cost of production. Shirts and drawers have moved freely and stocks are low, some numbers having been sold out entirely. Cardigan jackets have improved in demand and in price. Fancy hose are slightly improved in price, but the figures are not satisfactory to manufacturers. Nublas are freely selected, and in some numbers there is a scarcity, but in other styles of fancy knit woollens the business is scarcely opened.

In gloves and gauntiets there is only a moderate movement, but the season is too early to look for a lively demand.

movement, but the season is too early to look for a lively demand.

WOOLLEN GOODS.

There has been a good business done during the week in the fine styles of fancy woollens, with prices fair, but not up to increased cost of production. Trade will be light during the remainder of the month, jobbers being well supplied.

There is a decided improvement in the inquiry for shawls, yet no fair estimate can be made of the market till it is known what the actual scale of prices will be. Buyers suppose that there will be an advance, but, as in other woollens, it will be difficult to harmonize the views of buyers and manufacturers.

It is reported that on all styles of British goods there has been a marked advance and a great scarcity of goods. Alpacas are now twenty-five per cent higher than three months ago, and an almost equal advance is seen in all styles and qualities of goods. goods.

Velveteens and velvets are very high, and they must still advance if importers are to realize any profit.

THE RECENT AWNING CASUALTY.

The case of Robert C. Henne, the German who head with an iron bar which supported an awning in front of 77 Chatham street, was yesterday investigated before Coroner Keenan, at the City Hall. It tigated before Coroner Keenan, at the City Hall. It will be remembered that the awning fell in consequence of the post supporting it being run against by a pair of horses attached to a heavy market wagon belonging to and driven by Robert Hutchinson, a Long island farmer. The testimony showed that Hutchinson was driving recklessly to pass a rail car, and that the awning was considered to be unsate, notwithstanding which the jury failed to censure Hutchinson or the owner of the awning.

This verdict was wholly unsatisfactory to the relatives of deceased, who are to institute a civil suit for damages.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WALL STREET. SATURDAY, JULY 22-6 P. M. On 'Change to-day wheat was unsettled until toward the close, when it became steady. The cotton narket was quiet and unchanged.

THE COTTON MOVEMENT. The receipts of cotton at all the ports for the week were 10,661 bates, against 15,386 bales the previous week. The total receipts since September 1, 1870, are 3,956,798 bales, against 2,843,084 bales for the corresponding period of the previous year, showing an increase of 1.113,714 bales in the present crop. The exports from all the ports for the week were 19,271 bales, against 12,712 bales for the same week last year. The total exports for the expired portion of the cotton year are 3,095,547 bales, against 2,159,899 bales for the same time last year. The stock at all the ports is 156,319 bales, against 126,384 bales for the same time last year.

The bank statement is tavorable, showing as it does some effort at reducing the expansion in the item of loans, which has led to a decrease in deposits and a corresponding decrease of liabilities. The specie export of the week has taken away from the banks in the way of reserve almost all that they gained by an increase in legal tenders, but the decrease in habilities, coupled with the gain in green backs, has enabled the banks to contribute nearly $700,000 to the surplus which they hold in excess of the amount required by law. The reserve now on hand is $19,035,005-more than twenty-five per cent of their liabilities. The statement compares with its predecessor as follows:-

THE TAX ON DIVIDENDS. Secretary Boutwell, by advice of the Solicitor General, has decided not to collect a tax for the five months of 1870 in cases where corporations did not withhold the tax after Commissioner Pleasonton's original decision and before Secretary Boutwell's reversal thereof. Secretary Boutwell's delay in reversing Commissioner Pleasonton's decision on in-comes for the last five months of 1870 will cause a ioss to the government of between four and five millions of dollars. This decision, it will be noticed, does not interfere with the general principle of the Secretary's decision, which is in direct conflict with the letter of the law. Congress committed an over-sight in falling to provide for the tax during the five months referred to, and Mr. Boutwell's ruling is wholly arbitrary. Money was easy at two to three per cent. Prime paper is quoted 4% a 5% per cent for sixty-day dates, and 5% a 7 per cent for sixty days to six

The government list was active for the old sixes of 1861, which, on European orders, suddenly advanced to 116. The general market was strong and steady, closing as follows:-United States currency sixes, 113% a 114; do., 1881, registered, 115% a 115%; do. do., coupon, 115½ a 115½; do. five-twenties, registered, May and November, 113½ a 113½; do. do., 1862, coupon, do., 114½ a 114½; do. do., 1864, do. do., 113% a 113%; do. do., 1865, do. do., 113% a 114; do. do., registered, January and July, 112% a 112½; do. do., 1865, coupon, do., 112½ a 112½; do. do., 1887, do. do., 112½ a 112½; do. do., 1868, do. do., 112% a 113%; do. ten-forties, registered, 112% a 112%; do. do., coupon, 113 a 113%.

The stock market opened steady, but became irregular during the course of the day on a light amount of business. Western Union Telegraph fell to 55%, but rallied one per cent at the close. Lake Shore declined to 107%, and Ohio and Mississippi to 43%. The greatest decline was in Hannibal and St. Joseph, which fell to 60%, and in Consolidation Coal, which broke to 37. The bank statement, the remission of the tax on dividends and the Lake Shore meeting next week were made the pretext for a rally late in the day, and the "bears" began a general movement to cover, added to which there were numerous orders from outside parties to buy for a reaction, after so large a decline as occurred during the week. The consequence was a recovery in prices and a firm market in the closing dealings on the sidewalk.
